Emphasis on the contrast between protection and vulnerability, multiple layers, second skin looks and a colour palette including his signature black and white and this season's scarlet red and deep green are some of the basic elements of Craig Green's AW 15 Collection. After receiving rave reviews for his previous SS 15 show the Emerging Menswear Designer Award winner in the recent BFAs returns with a collection where the concepts of concealed power, experimentation and practicality are dominant.

This was Craig's second solo show which was recently presented at London Collections: Men through the NEWGEN MEN initiative. The collection can now be seen in Paris at London Show Rooms Men from January 23rd to January 27th.

Atopos cvc has been following and supporting Craig Green through the 'Mon Petit Chou' project since the first steps of his career. 'Mon Petit Chou' is a project initiated by Atopos to observe and to assist in a supportive and collaborative way the progress of a young artist from the beginning of their career. In return, the artist provides Atopos with some of their work which then becomes part of the Atopos collection.

Atopos cvc is participating in the exhibition 'Resistance' with two Craig Green pieces belonging to the Atopos Collection. The exhibition is organized by the Heart - Herning Museum in Denmark and will be presented until January 25th. Furthermore, Craig Green creations from the Atopos Collection are exhibited in the Atopos Unlocked program in Athens until May 2015.
