In the context of Atopos BlahBlahBlah programme curated by Vassilis Zidianakis, Atopos cvc collaborates with Bruno Ceschel and Self Publish Be Happy, London. After Tate Modern, ICA, Serpentine and Aperture Foundation the founder of SPBH visits Athens and Atopos cvc on April 8th in order to talk about the phenomenon of self-publishing and to present his SPBH TV project along with his new book, a unique manual-manifesto on DIY photobooks and art editions. On April 9th and 10th a free, two-day, intensive SPBH workshop will take place at Atopos cvc under his guidance. Additionally, during the weekend Jamie Shaw from the SPBH team will set his zine-making studio in Atopos premises. The new zine will be launched as soon as the workshop is completed and drinks, chit-chat and party mood will follow.

About Self Publish Be Happy

Self Publish Be Happy has been thoroughly presented through the Guardian, Dazed, the FT amongst others, as it constitutes a significant platform that supports and promotes DIY publications and self-publishers since 2010. It is a London-based organisation founded by Bruno Ceschel that collects, studies and celebrates self-published photobooks through an ongoing programme of workshops, live events and on/offline projects. Self Publish, Be Happy has organised events at a number of institutions around the world, including Tate Modern, The Photographer's Gallery, ICA, Serpentine Galleries, C/O Berlin, Aperture Foundation and Kunsthal Charlottenborg amongst others.
